Virgil's

C. brought this for me all the way from sunny California!

I like the label, it looks like a coked-out Grizzly Adams serving dinner at the Ponderosa.

The brew has a pretty intense flavour, strong and creamy. It was a little sweet for my taste, but that would have been cut down a bit if I'd had my trusty Mug mug all frosted up, but it's currently out of commission, sitting on my kitchen counter full of cilantro. As you can see from the photo, I took this picture outside on my first deck dinner of the season!
